

Dr. Tobias Trütsch

Dr. Tobias Trütsch is Managing Director of the Center for Financial Services Innovation (FSI) at the University of St. Gallen (HSG) since 1 April 2022.

His research interests are payment and monetary economics with special emphasis on innovative payment products and individual payment behaviour. He holds a Ph.D. in International Affairs and Political Economy with special focus on Economics from the University of St. Gallen and a Master of Science in Economics from the University of Berne.

Before joining the FSI, he worked as a programme director of executive programmes for politicians and public affairs employees and was Head of the Economics Division at the Executive School at HSG. Tobias Trütsch is also a lecturer for economics on the bachelor level and in executive education at HSG. He further acts as a communication manager of the “Global Competitiveness Report”, to which the HSG contributes as a partner institute of the World Economic Forum. He is further recognised as an established expert in payment economics in Swiss media.